Tuesday, March 1, 1892.

The money market was quiet and perhaps a little dull, again in this city. Sterling bills were unchanged. Government securities were dull. Stocks were inactive.—The Chicago produce markets were quite dull, with no event having to gain it over the end of the week. There was a better export demand for pork products. As compared with Tuesday provisions closed 7½c more higher, wheat ¼ cent higher, corn and oats ¼ cent higher, rye and hogs steady, and barley weaker fully 1 cent lower.

Up to the present time seventy-nine operatives of Chicago have voted on the question of their option in connection with the low current last winter on the subject, and only one county, Washington, has voted to permit the sale of liquor. Most of the twenty-eight counties that have voted for prohibition have given large majorities in favor. The provisional Prohibitionists, it may be remarked, have refused to almost every instance to vote on that question submitted, and have otherwise done their best to discourage the anti-option movement. There has been no interest in any county concerning a city of any considerable size.

It is to be regretted that Ald. Lawler did not introduce his bridge-closing ordinance some time ago so that it could be passed before the navigation season opened. It ought to be passed now with energy. The bridge nuisance is continuous. It has also come to hold up the South Side, including Hyde Park, as the superior of the other divisions of the city from the high transit to which some of the West Side aldermen so frequently refer. It will be interesting to observe how the West Side representatives vote on an ordinance which, if adopted, will tend to build up the commercial supremacy of the city which they represent. It ought to prove to give them a chance to put on record on this question before the spring election.

Assessors in Republican recently printed in The Tribune there will be no opposition to the reëlection of Judge Haskins and Judge Gilbert to the Supreme Court bench next June when their terms expire. This is as it ought to be. Both are able jurists of unquestioned integrity and impartiality. The people of both districts confer a service on the whole State by reëlecting them. There will be Democratic opposition in this district to the reëlection of Judge Magruder, whose term also expires in June. So was the success of Democratic votes in two classes in the election of the late Judge Higbee, and will probably be the success of both parties in this district. It was no doubt understood that he consented to be a candidate to kill off Democratic opposition to his reëlection. He should not allow to give no encouragement to the assumption of the Democratic vote in the district to which his name is attached. If they succeed in this they knock the bottom out of the whole scheme of the Democratic leaders to capture the Supreme bench. Judge Magruder is entitled to the full support of his party friends, and will receive it. He is a Democrat who has been a credit to the party and to the bench. He has made a record as a judge of which he may be proud, and which entitles him to the confidence of all parties.

The result of the whisky and tobacco taxes is eagerly sought with a view to aiding and lessening of the tariff imposition. The first on whisky amounts to $41,000,000 and that on tobacco to $31,000,000, and with these enough among the surplus promises would be dispensed of and the high war tariff left carried and intact. The fly in the face of this extravagant plan to cheapen whisky and tobacco for the sole purpose of preserving a needed and exactly protective tariff to prevent of consumption of this is a persistently assertion that everybody favors an that "all Republicans" or most will approve a "moderate reduction" of the tariff to get rid of the surplus revenues. Such an assertion is plainly false. The high-tariff Harts are determined of any and to prevent tariff reduction, and hence have devised their scheme to throw off the whisky and tobacco taxes. If they succeed in this they knock the tariff out, be localized, only to raise the duties and make the rate of taxation still higher. They propose to forestall the people by getting rid of $41,000,000 of whisky and tobacco revenues, and thus make sure that any tariff "revision" quantities thereafter must result in a making up of luxuries and an additional price of articles of daily necessity. Such an ulterior tariff object as the Chicago Journal tells that protective things should be revised only by "increasing protection." Such is the device of the Journal, Kelley, and Dingley fashion, and that end is to be attained by making wheat dirty and whisky dear.

Continued to enforce the greatest most favorable opportunity to lower taxes now), duty high and simple, committee, will Congress, in order to create this demand, forge around the tariff and shout the whisky and tobacco taxes! Such action is applauded by no one except the ultra-protectionist lights who have an ulterior and sinister end in view. The consumers of whisky and tobacco are satisfied with the present taxes and sensible home-to-fathers articles about enough now. Some tobacco-planters may wish to get rid of the internal-revenue taxes and legislation is active to carry on the fine process of manufacturers, but the regular manufacturers and dealers are not asking the repeal of the present law. Only the ultra-protectionists are taking the cry. Whisky-distill

When children gather in delight,
To fill the air with bubbles bright,
Of this let parents all be sure—
The soap they use is good and pure,
For, common grease in some we find
With evil mixtures well combined
That soon with burning sores will vex
On lips and tongue, and gums as well.

Let Ivory Soap, that's made with care
Of purest oils and cannot scar,
Be used by those who bubbles blow
And greatest pleasure will they know,
For brighter bubbles will be seen
Where soap is pure and fresh and clean,
While not a fear need cross the mind
Of bad results of any kind.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps sold represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory'," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
